Fan Music Jam Gets Instruments

Teresa Cochran may well have solved the thorniest problem looming over the Fan Music Jam planned for Corflu Glitter. While local fans and those driving to the con can easily bring instruments, it is inconvenient for flyers to bring instruments to the convention.

She had already made some arrangements to have some instruments available. Teresa herself will contribute a couple of guitars, a mandolin and a fiddle, Joyce Katz will lend her keyboard and Corflu will provide kazoos, washboards and other instruments for the less musically adept.

Teresa has arranged to have several additional guitars available for the jam. And thanks to the generosity of Tom Hudak, owner of Tom Hudak's Black Mountainside Music School, we are getting the use of the instruments at no cost!

Teresa is Corflu Glitter's host for the music-making sessions. She has extremely wide-ranging musical tastes and will guide the event with a light and delicate hand.

Auction Gets Atom Painting

A painting with both artistic excellence and major fanhistorical significance is the latest contribution to the Corflu Glitter auction. Thanks to the incredible generosity of Linda and Ron Bushyager, a savvy bidder will be able to acquire a large framed Atom (Arthur Thomson) cartoon that once hung on the door to the Fan Attic at 178 Newtowards Rd., the home of Walter and Madeleine Willis.

"The auction is a key revenue source for Corflu," notes Chairman Joyce Katz. "It has spelled the difference between a minor and a major financial loss at all three previous Las Vegas Corflus. It's an honor to have this item included in the auction and, due to Linda, it will mean a nice infusion of cash into the Corflu treasury."

The Corflu Glitter Countdown

Corflu Glitter is just 17 weeks away — and that's practically tomorrow.

And if Corflu is close, Christmas and Channukah are much, much closer.

If you're hunting for a memorable gift at a reasonable price for that special trufan, pay a visit to our refurbished Café Press store.

Vegas Restaurant of the Week

The Grand Cafe

Sunset Station

Hours: 24/7

Price: $8-$12/person

Service: Professional and Efficient

A diverse and eclectic menu, pleasant décor and relaxed atmosphere make this a fine example of a Las Vegas casino coffee shop. The food is good, if not spectacular, and the portions are ample.

The eatery is open round-the-clock, though the menu during the wee hours is more limited. The servers are attentive, but don't hurry diners unless there's actually a line of waiting customers. (AK)

Joyce also announced that Corflu Glitter would, like previous Las Vegas Corflus, make contributions to the fan funds out of auction receipts.

Famous Fanartist Collection Seeks Illos

The Famous Fanartist collection, available at Corflu Glitter's Café Press store (www.CafePress.com/CorfluGlitter) needs a little help. Genial Proprietor Don Miller wants to add Bill Rotsler and Arthur Thomson to the Famous Fanartists collection and is searching for the right cartoons to represent Bill and Atom.

The cartoon should be roughly square, without an outer border. Keep in mind the size that the illo would be on a mug or button.

Send a JPEG or GI file to Joyce (joyceworley1@cox.net) so she and Don can see them together. No other use will be made of any suggested illo and unused one will be deleted. The sender of an illo used to decorate items will receive a mug or button, their choice, for their help.

Say Goodnight

Glitter returns next Friday. Meanwhile, keep fanning! — Arnie
